

Open Access, an International Peer- Reviewed Scientific Journal

ISSN 2002-6145

Aim of the Journal

Sustainable Resources Management Journal aim to bring important work (natural science) to a wide international audience and therefore only publish papers with strong messages that advance our understanding in the field. The primary aim of the Journal is to raise environmental awareness and provide high quality information. Both experimental and theoretical studies are accepted, as are descriptive or historical accounts, although these must offer insights into issues of general interest.

Scope of the Journal

Sustainable Resources Management Journal publish articles on all aspects of natural science filed of studies including: water resources management, sustainability of water resources, ground and surface water quality and quantity, water use and reuse, biodegradation of organic pollutants in a water, desalination, engineering solutions and technological innovations relating to water management, social and environmental studies relating to water, chemical, physical and biological contributions relating to water, environmental restoration, including research on soil and groundwater, biofilters, bioremediation, sustainable waste management, food waste, recycling and waste to energy studies.